FIDELITY INVESTMENTS MOONLIGHT MOVIES RETURN FOR SECOND SEASON IN SEPTEMBER

City's free outdoor series features blockbuster films and a Viewer's Choice

GREENVILLE (SC) – The City of Greenville's popular Fidelity Investments Moonlight Movies return to The Peace Center Amphitheatre Wednesday, September 7, for a four-week run. The free film series will be projected onto a giant inflatable screen and will feature movies from a wide range of genres and periods, including Breakfast at Tiffany's, Stranger's on a Train, The Magnificent Seven and a special Viewer's Choice.

"Screening movies outdoors has become extremely popular over the years," said Will Young, special events coordinator. "We are fortunate to have the perfect venue in downtown Greenville for people to bring the entire family for a night of free outdoor entertainment."

The films begin at sundown (approximately 8 p.m.), but moviegoers are invited to come early, bring lawn chairs, blankets and a picnic. Pets are not allowed at City special events. Individuals consuming alcohol at the event must purchase a $1 wristband. For more information about the Fidelity Investments Moonlight Movies, contact Will Young at 467-4484 or visit events.greenvillesc.gov.
